With increased threat from the Delta variant, many employers are revisiting COVID-19 mask, vaccination, and safety policies.

- Should you require masks?
- Can you ask employees to provide proof of vaccination?
- What do you do if an employee tests positive or is exposed to COVID-19?

Managers are out on the frontlines implementing and enforcing your company's policies.

They need to understand:

- Your attendance, leave, and code of conduct policies
- The basics of HR documentation
- How to identify when corrective action is needed

With training, managers can address employee issues right away and keep them from becoming larger problems that drain resources and affect the rest of the team.

But how many employers have time to give managers the HR training they need?
